Let's talk about head & neck cancer

Head and neck cancer is generally a range of cancers which include the mouth, tongue, palate, jaw, salivary glands, tonsils, throat, voice box, nose and sinuses.

Approximately 4,400 people in Australia are diagnosed with a head and neck cancer each year, we need to talk about the head & neck cancer.

Join us at this event to talk about different areas of cancer care. People affected by the head & neck cancer, their carers and family members are welcome to attend.
